SCIENCE PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

VIRGINIA CURRENTS

Thursday Evenings at 8:00 pm, beginning November 1

Virginia Currents returns for its 28th season, welcoming a new host, Amy Lacey. The first episode of the new season focuses on Alzheimer's, as we sit down with Maria Shriver at the Women's Alzheimer's Summit in Richmond where new findings in research and lifestyle changes are discussed. A WCVE Production.

REVOLUTIONIZING DEMENTIA CARE

Thursday, November 15 at 9:00 pm

NEW! Discover how people living with dementia can still live a full and meaningful life based on their abilities, not their disabilities. Innovative approaches in memory care communities have shown improvements in the well-being of residents as they're included, engaged and supported in social gatherings, clubs and everyday activities.

A WCVE Production. Stream at ideastations.org/AlzCare

ALZHEIMER'S: THE CAREGIVER'S PERSPECTIVE

Thursday, November 22 at 10:00 pm

Caregivers share their diverse experiences of caring for loved ones in the world of dementia. Learn from them firsthand as they explain how they creatively navigate the frustrations, sorrows and complications of caring for a loved one who can no longer function safely on their own. Rebroadcast.

A WCVE Production. Stream at ideastations.org/AlzCare

WHAT IS SCIENCE MATTERS?

Science Matters is a multi-media educational initiative of the Community Idea Stations, Central Virginia's PBS & NPR stations. Through our Radio, Television and Digital presence, we strive to inspire our community to value Science and to understand its importance to our future. We couple excellent national PBS and NPR content with compelling locally produced segments which feature community partners involved in exciting Science, Technology, Engineering and Math (STEM) activities in Virginia. Our community outreach events and our new Science Matters Community Events Calendar are additional vehicles for engaging audiences of all ages in ongoing discovery and exploration of all things science.
